by USA Today readers

Sandy Spring, MD: On 6/5/24, USA Today announced The Adventure Park at Sandy Spring was voted the #1 Adventure Park in North America, finishing second overall behind “Botanical World Adventures” in Hawaii.

Originally nominated by a panel of industry experts and editors at USA Today, The Adventure Park at Sandy Spring joined 20+ other Adventure Parks as candidates for the “10Best” competition.

“We are incredibly thankful to everyone who supports us. We would not be where we are without the hard work and dedication of so many people. Our next chapter will include some really exciting additions and brand new Adventures.” said Matt Hines, Director of Business Development. “To finish first in North America and land only behind a beautiful park in Hawaii, we’ll take it!”

Over the last two years, The Adventure Park at Sandy Spring has been voted the #1 Amusement Park & Climbing Destination in the DMV by Washington Parent Magazine, received a recognition from Gov. Wes Moore, was named the “Olney Chamber of Commerce Business of the Year 2023”, and became the fourth park of its kind in the U.S. and the first in Maryland to complete the Association for Challenge Course Technology Accreditation program.
